“QUALITY
OVER QUANTITY”

BIO

George has been in the professional world for over 15 years as a hiring manager and operational leader across a range of industries. In 2020, he moved to Australia and transitioned into the recruitment field. He is a specialist in data engineering recruitment, with extensive experience in the technology recruitment scene.

When engaging with data engineers, George endeavours to understand their needs and preferences to connect them with roles that truly align with them, focusing on quality, and keeping the process straightforward. He has collaborated with top-tier banking and financial institutions, along with a mix of other industries, to help them improve their data capabilities and business intelligence.

Quality, not quantity, is George's motto when it comes to matching people with roles. He's committed to building relationships based on trust, transparency, and open communication. His appreciation for the simple beauty of nature reflects in his commitment to simplicity and authenticity in recruitment. He values transparency, honesty, and a genuine connection with candidates and clients alike.
