“CONNECTING PEOPLE WITH PASSIONS”

BIO

Nic joined the recruitment industry in 2019 and quickly realised it was the perfect way to combine his passions for connecting with people and exploring new fields. With experience across the UK, New Zealand, and Australian job markets, Nicholas has been specialising in technology and project services recruitment since 2021.

Nic takes great joy in helping individuals connect with their passions and securing opportunities they might not have discovered on their own. He firmly believes that because a person spends so much of their life at work, you want to be somewhere where you enjoy what you do, love who you work with, and are proud of what you achieve. As a result, his favourite part of the job is hearing back from a candidate or client saying thank you for the perfect match!

Based in Sydney, Nic spends his downtime sampling the city's food and drink scene, exploring beaches, and pursuing his love of photography and mountain biking.
